

I never came up with an exact time frame for a warranty on the Pork chop Vic Pucks.

When someone has an issue I've been asking them for pictures and what Model Victory they have and which PCVP did they order, to see if they ordered the right one, if there's a possible different problem with the kickstand etc.

Then I would just send them another one at no cost.

I guess if I had to put a number on it I would go 1 year but my guts and from how mine looks with all the riding I do, that most should get 3 years out of them.

I hope this answers your question.
